Authorization for this examiner's amendment was given in a telephone interview with William W. Schaal on April 14th, 2005.

communicating to a first mobile unit to inform the first mobile unit that the first access point is capable of handling data compression, the first access point determines whether to compress data based" with

.....one or more factors considered by the first access point include at least one factor selected from the group comprising a first factor indicating whether the first access point is capable of handling data compression, a second factor indicating whether the first mobile unit can perform data compression according to one or more specific compression schemes that are supported by the first access point, a third factor indicating whether the size of data to be transmitted exceeds a first threshold level, a fourth factor indicating how much data is waiting in a queue to be transmitted, a fifth factor indicating a relative position of the data to be compressed with respect to other data in the queue that is waiting to be transmitted, a sixth factor indicating whether the type of the data to be compressed is suitable for data compression, a seventh factor indicating whether previous compression gain exceeds a second threshold level, and an eighth factor indicating a relative computational power of the first mobile unit to be used for data compression tasks;.....
- In Claim 17, lines 9-14, replace “the first mobile unit, upon being informed that the first access point is capable of handling data compression, optionally transmitting data in compressed format to the first access point; and the first access point, upon receiving compressed data from the first mobile unit which indicates to the first access point that the first mobile unit is capable of handling data compression, optionally transmitting data in compressed format to the first mobile unit." withupon being informed that the first access point is capable of handling data compression, optionally transmitting data in compressed format to the first access point by the first mobile unit; and upon receiving compressed data from the first mobile unit which indicates to the first access point that the first mobile unit is capable of handling data compression, optionally transmitting data in compressed format to the first mobile unit by the first access point.

- In Claim 26, lines 2-6, replace "a first access point in a wireless network communicating to a first mobile unit to inform the first mobile unit that the first access point is capable of handling data compression', the first mobile unit, upon being informed that the first access point is capable of handling data compression, optionally transmitting data in compressed format to the first access point," with

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 6, 2-5, 8, 7, 17, 11-16, 18, 26, 20-25, 27, 35, 29-34, 36-40, 56-57 and re-numbered as claims 1-37 respectively are allowable over the prior art of record because the cited references do not contain the specified limitation of a method comprising informing one or more mobile units within a wireless network that a first access point is capable of handling data compression; informing the first access point that a first mobile unit is capable of handling compression; optionally compressing data at the first mobile unit prior to transmitting the data to the first access point, by deciding whether to compress the data based upon at least one factor selected from the group comprising of a first factor indicating whether the first access point is capable of handling data compression, a second factor indicating whether the first mobile unit can perform data compression according to one or more specific compression schemes that are supported by the first access point, a third factor indicating whether the size of data to be transmitted exceeds a first threshold level, a fourth factor indicating how much data waiting in a queue to be transmitted, a fifth factor indicating a relative position of the data to be compressed with respect to other data in the queue that is waiting to be transmitted, a sixth factor indicating whether the type of the data to be compressed is suitable for data compression, a seventh factor indicating whether previous compression gain exceeds a second threshold level, and an eighth factor indicating a relative computational power of the first mobile unit to be used for data compression tasks; and optionally compressing data at the first access point prior to transmitting the data to the first mobile unit.
